Our birth and sex are predetermined: An empirical study

Dr. Gajanan V Madiwal

Abstract

Today many couples are keen to predict the sex of their baby during pregnancy. They make use of various methods available in the field of astrology and medical science. Hinduism believes that our birth, sex parents, spouse and destiny are prefixed and predetermined. Based on these concept the objectives were formed: to analyse the truth whether one can select the sex of a baby before conceive; whether one can predict the sex during pregnancy with the help of Chinese Sex Prediction Chart (CSPC) and to find truth behind the Hinduism concept that our birth, sex and destiny are predetermined as per the Naadi Jotisha written by Sri Koushika Agasthiya Maharshi. The collected data put for test and found that: majority of dates observed have shown the accurate results in case of sex prediction and sex selection; and the people who visited Naadi Jotida Nilayam found their names, birth date, names of their parents, spouse, number of children etc., on palm leaves written about 2000 years ago, which proves that our birth is predetermined. To do experiment two couples were asked to select the sex of their babies (who selected baby boys with the help of CSPC) before conceive. Both mothers gave birth to baby boys. They asked to visit Naadi Nilayam, where it was written on palm that both the couples had two children and second child is son. All the objectives and hypothesis are observed to have proved affirmatively, hence, Hinduism concept observed to be true.

1. Introduction

Egyptian priest cum doctors developed their own methods to treat disease and disorders which were partially backed by spiritual power. As dynasty and civilisation vanished the rich knowledge gained in medical field also vanished. Latter Indian scholars and Chinese doctors started working on medical field, which gave birth to Ayurveda and Yunani. After introduction of allopathic medicine by western people with the help of colonial rulers, both discipline lost their strong based entity. The core area of all these medical research was and is, child birth and sex selection for rich and Royal families.

Today again the medical researchers including western researchers started re-researching the claims made in the Ayurveda, Yoga, Unani, Siddha and Homeopathy which coined a new name 'AYUSH'. Unfortunately Indian astrology was not made part of any medical research though it explains, predicts and gives reasons for our health problems. The Naadi Jotisha taken for study gives clear picture of types of diseases one suffers in one's life and medicines to be taken also prescribed.

1.1 Materials

In this cross-check empirical study, an attempt is made to analyse the degree of credibility of (i) Chinese Sex Prediction Chart (CSPC), which claims that sex of unborn baby can be predicted and (ii) India's Naadi Jotish, which claims that our birth and sex are predetermined.

1.2 Chinese Sex Prediction Chart (CSPC)

Archaeologists of China, while excavating the site of Royal Tomb near Beijing, found a chart carved on stone in which it is written that if a woman of particular age conceives in a particular month gets baby of particular sex. It is claimed that the chart works at 99 per cent accuracy, if the date of birth of the woman is accurate. One can predict the sex of one's baby when it is in mother's womb and also can select sex of a baby before conceive.

To analyse the degree of authenticity, the chart was put for test with the actual data collected from various sources.

1.3 Naadi Jotida

Nearly 2000 years ago the sages of yore Sri Koushika Agasthiya Maharshi, through his sheer intuition understand Medicine, Engineering and Astrology and several other areas of basic human knowledge and transcribed on palm leaves. The said palm leaves are tied together in the form of bundles and indexed. Some of the Naadi transcribed palm leaves are also written in Sanskrit by other sages but the present study is made on Naadi palm leaves written in Tamil, one of the Indian languages of south India.

The word Naadi originates from Tamil language, which means destined to come on own accord. The moment one think to visit the Naadi centre, the palm leaves relating to the person reaches the centre from other centres. The main centre is at Tanjauru in Tamilnadu and other two centres are in Kolkata and Mapusa, North Goa.

Limited editions of the bundle are kept at centre. Somehow, at appropriate time or age specified on the leaves reaches the centre from any other centres. It is observed that the visitors were not only form India but also from other countries.

The trained Naadi reader reads the palm leaves in Tamil and the translator translates as per the language of the visitors. According to the Agathiya Muni the destiny of the entire humankind, who borne in this kaliyug is predetermined with time, longevity, family, major incidents etc., and no one can change it. But the impact of major problems can be diluted to some extent if one follows procedures or do the remedies told in the Naadi'

Naadi reader searches one's palm from the bundle after reading one's thumb impression (Right thumb for male and left thumb for female). According to Naadi each thumb has dots at different places and accordingly thumbs have been indexed/ classified into 1008 types. The palm leaves are arranged in the bundle according to the index. Since each bundle contains several leaves and perdition of several persons, the visitor has to answer some questions to locate exact palm leaves relating to the person.

The palm leaves gives details such as names of the visitor and parents, date of birth, number of brothers and sister, important events happened, name of spouse, children, last life and present life and future life too.

2. Methods

The primary data required to test have been collected through pretested questionnaire, issued to the persons who visited Naadi Jotida Nilayam and the data needed to test Chinese birth chart have been collected through pretested questionnaire who voluntarily came forward to provide their own data of birth and their children. And two of them have been asked to select sex before conceive and also asked to visit after the child birth Naadi Jotida for cross-check.

3. Objectives of the Study

To analyse the degree of authenticity of Chinese Sex Prediction Chart and;

To cross-check the truth behind the concept of Hinduism that our births are predetermined with the written palm leaves available at Naadi Jotida Nilayam.

4. Hypothesis

Sex selection before conceiving and sex prediction after conceiving can be done by referring Chinese Sex Perdition Chart.

Birth and sex of a child are predetermined as per the palms of the Naadi Jotibha.

5. Result

The birth dates of mothers and children collected from relatives and friends (after cross check with their birth certificates) gave 90 per cent accurate result, when age of the mothers and their conceived dates are put for the test with the age and months given in the CSPC. The sex of the child is as accurate as it is stated in chart.

The birth dates of mother and child collected from other sources (without verifying with birth certificates) gave only 60% accurate result when dates are put for test with CSPC.

Above said data analysis was done after the birth of the children taken for our study. In two cases the chart was referred before conceive to select sex and found 100% accurate results. Both mothers were interested to go for baby boy and selected the right month which would give them baby boy as per CSCP and got baby boys in both the cases.

As per the couples' wish CSCP was referred for prior (before conceive) sex selection and both couples selected to go for baby boy as their second child.

After the birth of their second child (baby boy) the couples were asked to cross check and analyse their personal data especially about their number of children and sex at Naadi Jotida Nilayam, In the palm leaves relating to the couple were it was already written that both of them had two children each and second one is son. It means though the couples wish to have baby boys and tried by referring CSCP, but it is found that the incidents already recorded 2000 years before our birth on palm leaves.

The said discussion and analysis proved that our birth and sex are predetermined even though we wish to alter, it is not possible, hence, the results of CSCP partially given wrong results many times to adjust with our destiny, which is predetermined.

When details like date of birth, parents, spouse, brothers and sisters, compared with the information written on Naadi palm leaves, it revealed that not only our birth is and sex are predetermined but also our date of birth, parents, brothers, sisters and spouse also predetermined.

To conclude, sex selection does not have any values (which one feel that one can select or change as per our will and wish by referring CSCP or advanced medical science) since our birth and sex are predetermined as per Naadi.

6. Limitations of the Study

The first part (sex prediction) of the study is based on verification and cross checking of collected information (mothers' age and babies' sex) with ancient CSCP in the state of Goa and Karnataka. The conclusions arrived may not give the same results unless otherwise compared with a large sample size from other states and countries to generalise the concept and theory- our sex is predetermined.

The second part (birth is predetermined) of the study is also based on the limited data collected from the person who visited Naadi Jotida Nilayam, Mapusa, Goa, India. Also the second hypothesis was tested with very limited visitors. Hence, there is a need to test large number of data.

7. Further Research

The study could be taken up by gathering a large amount of sample size so that a clear verdict can be pronounced as a perfect theory. The study also can be linked to medical science and occult practice so that researcher can reveal the truth behind unbelievable ancient knowledge treasures in India.

International gynaecologist can undertake further research by penetrating deep into the objectives and can link the medical science inventions with ancient knowledge.
