Introduction

Scientific theories are sometimes labeled "Numerology" if their primary inspiration appears to be a set of patterns rather than scientific observations. This colloquial use of the term is quite common within the scientific community and it is mostly used to dismiss a theory as questionable science.

The best known example of "numerology" in science involves the coincidental resemblance of certain large numbers that intrigued such eminent men as mathematical physicist Paul Dirac, mathematician Hermann Weyl and astronomer Arthur Stanley Eddington<sup>[8]</sup>. These numerical coincidences refer to such quantities as the ratio of the age of the universe to the atomic unit of time, the number of electrons in the universe, and the difference in strengths between gravity and the electric force for the electron and proton. ("Is the Universe Fine Tuned for Us?", Stenger, V.J., page 3)<sup>[9]</sup>.

The discovery of atomic triads, an early attempt to sort the elements into some logical order by their physical properties, was once considered a form of numerology, and yet ultimately led to the construction of the periodic table. Here the atomic weight of the lightest element and the heaviest are summed, and averaged, and the average is found to be very close to that of the intermediate weight element. This did not work with every triplet in the same group, but worked often enough to allow later workers to create generalizations.

There have been a few examples of numerology that have led to theories that transformed society: see the mention of Kirchhoff and Balmer in Good (1962, p. 316) and one can well include Kepler on account of his third law. It would be fair enough to say that numerology was the origin of the theories of electromagnetism, quantum mechanics, and gravitation. So, I intend no disparagement when I describe a formula as numerological.

Materials and Methods

In southern India, mostly in Tamil Nadu, the numbers assigned to English alphabets are the same as in the Chaldean system. The list is shown below:

- 1 = A, I, J, Q, Y
- 2 = B, K, R
- 3 = C, G, L, S
- 4 = D, M, T
- 5 = E, H, N, X
- 6 = U, V, W
- 7 = O, Z
- 8 = F, P

There is no assignment for the number 9. Numerologists analyze double-digit numbers from 10 to 99 and add up the total to one single digit (Ex: 12 = 3, 77=14=5). Such fine numbers would results in nearing the accuracy of experiences of different people.

Findings and conclusions

1. When we strikeout the name number of a Company's compound name number with Pyramid compound name number, then there should be any remainder in that sequence or if we get remainder then the Company is growing company and it will flourish.
2. When we strikeout the name number of Company's compound name number with Pyramid compound number, if there is no remainder in that sequence, the first letter of the company should be subtracted from Pyramid amount. On the basis of the remainder we can predict greater the company will develop or not, but the company will not develop then the first rule applies. The company will flourish and attain fame if Pyramid compound number is 8 and the company name's first letter is 1 according to first rule. {1.(sun): 8.(saturn) father son combination will not produce any malefic effects.}
3. When we strikeout the name number of company's compound name number with Pyramid compound number. If we don't get any remainder in that sequence. Then compound company name number should be subtracted when the result is 4 and 7. Such a company name has to struggle a lot to come up in future.
4. When we subtract the Pyramid number from the company's compound number 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. If there is no remainder such as 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9 such a company can develop to certain extent.
5. 1. Sun 2. Moon 3. Jupiter 5. Mercury 6. Venus 8. Saturn and 9. Mars, are the planets which would will travel together, but the 4 Raagu, and 7 Kethu they don't travel together because they are in opposite direction always. Hence, if a company gets No.4 (Raagu) No.7 (Kethu) Such a company will incur heavy loss.
