Abstract

This study investigates the astrological indicators that may forecast an individual's likelihood of divorce, defined as the legal dissolution of marriage by a court. Utilizing the esteemed principles of the Brihat Parasara Hora Shastra, it constructs a comprehensive framework for analyzing the intricacies of astrological research. The investigation examines the correlations between planetary placements and the interactions among astrological houses within the Natal chart. Key areas of focus include the presence of at least one functional malefic in the 7th or 8th house, the existence of more than two planets in the 2nd, 3rd, 7th, 8th, or 11th houses, and whether the lords of the 1st and 7th houses are positioned in dual signs. Furthermore, the study explores whether these lords are situated in nakshatras governed by Jupiter or Mercury, or if their nakshatra lords occupy dual signs, in addition to the placement of Venus in a dual sign. By clarifying the predictive potential of these astrological elements, this research seeks to offer structured methodologies for evaluating the likelihood of divorce, thereby enriching the scholarly discourse on the connection between astrology and individual destiny.

Introduction

Jonas and Kirk ^[1] sought to analyze the risk of divorce among married couples by utilizing longitudinal individual-level data from Sweden spanning the years 1968 to 2001.

Vinay ^[2] asserted that the reasons for divorce are influenced by the impaired 2nd, 4th, 7th, and 12th houses in an individual's birth chart. Vasu ^[3] argued that the conjunction of Mars and Ketu contributes to divorce among married couples.

Leslie ^[4] stated that divorce occurs due to an intercepted 7th house, a challenging placement of Venus, the presence of Saturn in the 7th house, or when the lord of the 7th house is afflicted.

Ashish ^[5] expressed the view that divorce is likely to occur if there are retrograde planets in the 7th or 8th houses, if the 7th house is afflicted by malefics, if the lord of the 6th house is positioned in the 7th house, or if Rahu is located in the 7th house.

This study investigates astrological indicators that may predict the likelihood of divorce, utilizing the principles of the Brihat Parasara Hora Shastra. It analyzes correlations between celestial arrangements and astrological houses in the Natal chart, focusing on factors such as the presence of functional malefics in the 7th or 8th houses, the number of planets in key houses, and the positioning of house lords and Venus. This research aims to clarify the predictive potential of astrology regarding divorce, contributing to the broader discussion on astrology and individual fate.

Methods and Materials

To assess an individual's likelihood of divorce, it is essential to analyze the Natal chart with a focus on the placement of functional malefics. This analysis should emphasize the relationships involving the 7th and 8th houses, the significance of dual signs, and the distribution of multiple planets in the 2nd, 3rd, 7th, 8th, or 11th houses, as well as the nakshatras they occupy. Additionally, the positioning of Venus in a dual sign plays a critical role. The presence of these factors within the chart suggests a heightened probability of divorce. Insights into the impacts of planetary aspects, along with the roles of the 2nd, 3rd, 7th, 8th, and 11th houses, as well as ascendant-specific functional malefics, can be found in Chapters 8, 11, 13, 14, 18, 19, 22, and 34 of the Brihat Parashara Hora Shastra [6]. Specific criteria, outlined in Table 1 below, indicate that the presence of any of these conditions in a Natal chart is associated with an increased likelihood of divorce.

Table 1: Comprehensive Criteria for Assessing the Likelihood of Divorce Based on Astrological Indicators

Rule Name	Rule Description
Rule 1	There must be at least one functional malefic located in or aspecting the 7th or 8th house.
Rule 2	There must be more than two planets in any one of the following houses: 2, 3, 7, 8, or 11.
Rule 3	The 1st lord and the 7th lord must be positioned in a dual sign.
Rule 4	The 1st and 7th lords must be in nakshatras governed by either Jupiter or Mercury, or their respective nakshatra lords must be in a dual sign.
Rule 5	Venus must be in a dual sign.

Results and Discussion

Table 2 provides the birth details of 100 individuals who have experienced divorce [7, 8], along with an analysis of their Natal charts based on the criteria outlined in Table 1. The results of this analysis are thoroughly examined and discussed in detail, highlighting the astrological patterns and indicators relevant to their experiences.

Conclusion

In conclusion, this study compellingly established that a range of astrological indicators can reliably forecast an individual's probability of divorce, defined as the legal dissolution of marriage by a court, in accordance with the criteria delineated in Table 1. The findings underscored the significance of these astrological elements in elucidating the phenomenon of marital dissolution. Moreover, while this research affirmed the validity of these principles, it is imperative to acknowledge that other planetary configurations may substantially influence outcomes, thereby warranting further inquiry in subsequent scholarly investigations.
