Abstract

This study delves into the role of astrological indicators in forecasting an individual's vulnerability to kidney-related health problems. Utilizing the revered principles of the Brihat Parasara Hora Shastra, the research constructs a detailed framework to assess the complexities of astrological analysis. The investigation focuses on the relationships between planetary placements and the interactions of astrological houses within the Natal (D1) and Navamsa (D9) charts, with particular emphasis on the influence of functional malefics. Specifically, it examines how these malefics affect both the Libra sign and Venus, or how Venus, as the lord of the 6th house, impacts the Libra sign. Through this lens, the study aims to clarify the predictive potential of these astrological factors in determining the likelihood of kidney-related health issues. By elucidating the predictive capabilities of these astrological elements, this study aims to provide systematic approaches for assessing the likelihood of kidney health issues, thereby contributing to the ongoing academic dialogue on the intersection of astrology and health.

Introduction

Kursija<sup>[1]</sup> proposed that the kidneys are governed by the 7th house and its ruling planet, with any affliction to the 7th house or its lord potentially causing kidney-related issues. He also noted that Jupiter and the Moon are regarded as the karakas of kidney disease.

Kapoor<sup>[2]</sup> stated that the kidneys are governed by the 7th house and its lord, and any affliction to these elements can result in kidney disease. He further noted that Jupiter and the Moon are responsible for kidney ailments when they are afflicted or placed in malefic houses within the horoscope. Additionally, the association of Mars or Saturn with Rahu is believed to lead to chronic kidney diseases.

Kuber<sup>[3]</sup> believed that kidney-related problems are primarily influenced by the 6th house, the 6th lord, the Virgo sign, watery signs, and the Moon.

Stephen Hughes<sup>[4]</sup> argued that the Libra sign is not a cause of kidney-related problems. He further stated that his analysis found no significant correlation, thus disproving the claims made by traditional astrologers.

Punarvasu<sup>[5]</sup> suggested that the Virgo sign and the 6th house represent the stomach region, including the abdomen, intestines, navel, and kidneys. He further stated that the Moon and Jupiter are the planets responsible for causing kidney-related problems.

This study examines astrological indicators that may predict the likelihood of renal issues, drawing on the principles of the Brihat Parasara Hora Shastra. It explores the correlations between celestial arrangements and astrological houses in the Natal and Navamsa charts, focusing on functional malefics influencing both the Libra sign and Venus, as well as the impact of Venus, as the lord of the 6th house, on the Libra sign. The aim of this research is to clarify the predictive potential of kidney-related ailments, contributing to the broader discourse on astrology and its influence on individual health.

Methods and Materials

To assess an individual’s likelihood of suffering from kidney-related ailments, it is crucial to analyze both the Natal and Navamsa charts, with particular emphasis on the functional malefics influencing both the Libra sign and Venus, as well as the role of Venus, as the lord of the 6th house, in relation to the Libra sign. According to the Kalapurusha kundali, the Libra sign represents the body parts below the navel, specifically the kidneys, and its lord is Venus. Insights into the planet Venus, the limbs of the Kalapurusha kundali, and the judgment of houses—especially the 6th house and ascendant-specific functional malefics—can be found in Chapters 3, 4, 11, 17, and 34 of the Brihat Parashara Hora Shastra<sup>[6]</sup>. Based on these inputs, specific rules are outlined in Table 1 below, indicating that the presence of any of these conditions in either the Natal chart (D1) or the Navamsa chart (D9) increases the likelihood of kidney-related ailments for a given individual.

Table 1: Criteria for Assessing the Likelihood of Kidney-Related Ailments Based on Natal (D1) and Navamsa (D9) Charts

Rule Name	Rule Description
Rule 1	Functional malefics must afflict both Venus and the Libra sign in the Natal chart (D1).
Rule 2	Functional malefics must afflict both Venus and the Libra sign in the Navamsa chart (D9).
Rule 3	Venus, being the lord of the 6th house or a functional malefic, aspects or is positioned in the Libra sign in the Natal chart (D1).
Rule 4	Venus, being the lord of the 6th house or a functional malefic, aspects or is positioned in the Libra sign in the Navamsa chart (D9).

Results and Discussion

Table 2 presents the birth details of 100 individuals who have experienced kidney-related health problems<sup>[7, 8]</sup>, along with an analysis of their Natal or Navamsa charts based on the criteria outlined in Table 1. The results of this analysis are thoroughly examined and discussed, emphasizing the astrological patterns and indicators that are relevant to their experiences.

Conclusion

In conclusion, this study effectively demonstrated that various astrological indicators can reliably predict an individual's likelihood of experiencing kidney-related health issues, based on the criteria outlined in Table 1. The findings underscored the significance of these astrological elements in forecasting kidney health problems. Future research will aim to establish precise timeframes during which an individual may be at greater risk of hospitalization for kidney-related issues. While the research affirmed the validity of these principles, it is important to acknowledge that other planetary configurations may also influence outcomes, highlighting the need for further investigation in subsequent studies.
